Corydon Customs selects Baker Dillon Group

(Clovis, CA) May 11, 2017 – Corydon Customs, the only company that offers customized die-cast model cars, trucks, semi-trucks, law enforcement, fire and rescue teams, emergency vehicles, race cars, and even boats and trains of any shape and size that can be adorned with any message, lettering or numerals on each vehicle and packaging for organizations or individuals will partner with Baker Dillon Group to enhance company promotion, trade show marketing and product sales.

Phoenix, AZ-based Corydon Customs also looks to find new and inventive ways of helping to give back to the community. “We are proud to offer several options for charitable organizations to help their fundraising efforts and currently work with several nationally recognized groups focused on supporting a variety of well-deserving fundraising efforts,” says company president Cory Johnson.

To honor the thousands of men and women who serve to protect communities with their lives, Corydon Customs has customized police, fire and rescue vehicles, both as a fundraising effort and an opportunity to show pride in various agency departments.

Built on an idea of wanting to do something unique with cars, Corydon Customs owner Cory Johnson began this idea in 2010 after spending years in the printing and custom products industry and then working with car auctions in the Arizona desert. Johnson began researching ideas of die-cast cars and how to customize them. He then started researching methods to personalize each vehicle. After years of trial and error, Johnson discovered that with his contacts in the printing world he had the perfect resources to develop this concept.
